

ALUMNI SPOTLIGHT: Wayne Fluke - Class of 1963

Patrons of the newly renovated Union Hotel in downtown Everett (now closed until spring) and visitors to the Everett Railroad Museum, located on the former site of the Everett High School, on North Spring Street have enjoyed the fruits of Wayne Fluke's labor as they look at the photos and post cards he has reproduced, framed, and hung in both facilities.

It's his retirement hobby, and he's very good at it. After a stint in the U.S. Navy, Wayne followed his dad into ironwork through the Cumberland, MD, local. He married Linda Calhoun (1965) and together they have four children, Amy Hoover (1984), Rusty (1988), Mendy Ferguson (1989) and Aaron (1996) and six grandchildren. Wayne and Linda have lived in Everett all their lives except while Wayne served in the Navy during the Viet Nam conflict. They celebrated their wedding anniversary in October, a day that Wayne spent part of his time hosting the final open house at the RR Museum. A number of his family members were in attendance.

Not only is Wayne beautifying these facilities, he offers some of the works for sale so patrons can take them home to remember old Everett and when the railroad thrived there. Portions of the sales benefit the maintenance of the museum, and the rest helps to pay for Wayne's supplies.

JAMIE BEEGLE RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP

On October 18, 2011, the Everett Area High School Alumni Association met at Kelly's Scenic View Restaurant for their annual anniversary banquet meeting. This is the one meeting of the year when business is suspended for an evening of camaraderie, to enjoy a nice meal together, and to meet the newest scholarship recipient. This year's recipient is Jamie Beegle, a 2010 graduate of Everett Area High School. Jamie is majoring in nursing at Allegany College of Maryland and is the daughter of Robert and Michele (Clark) Beegle.

on display at the railroad museum spotlighting the old steps that led down to the old high school cafeteria and that now lead down into the basement of the train station. The station building, along with the freight building, were moved to this spot after Everett Borough Council agreed to save the structures. These two buildings, along with the steam locomotive and caboose, make up Everett's only museum maintained by the Bloody Run Historical Society. The caboose is in desperate need of repair. The leaking roof has been replaced, but the rest of the caboose needs restored. Materials are available but volunteers with the right expertise are needed.

Wayne's reproductions of Everett sites are a wonderful addition to the mostly poster board and newspaper memorabilia that the museum offered until now. He is also an avid collector and has shared some of his collections with the museum display including Everett Milk and Ice Cream items and old crocks and bottles manufactured in Everett.

He is vice-president of the Bloody Run Historical Society. His quiet demeanor is replaced with enthusiasm the minute a visitor enters the museum and asks about a display or the steam engine. Hopefully, during the winter months the caboose can be refurbished, and a small working electric railroad diorama completed. Again, materials are available and all that's needed are toy train buffs with the expertise to complete the job.

Wayne's studio is located in his home as are many collections enhanced by visits to public sales and the internet. He loves to "talk" post cards or bottles and his knack for arranging and showing his collections is outstanding. His displays in the freight station are segmented into topics, i.e., Everett schools, hospital and physicians and many local railroad scenes. He is presently working on framing large photos of the Lion Manufacturing employees spanning five year periods from the 1950's and 60's. Lion Manufacturing was a vital part of the Everett economy back when it was not the norm to go on to college after graduating from high school. Therefore, many women were employed there helping support the family farm and the rural lifestyle.

Another current project Wayne is undertaking has to do with old Everett High School history and memorabilia. Wayne is being assisted by Pat Morgart (1958) who has collected Everett school clippings, especially reunion photos, and has assembled them for poster display at the museum. These and other school memorabilia (like the handrail from the North Spring Street grade school) can be seen at the train station museum.

The museum is now closed for the winter, but Wayne suggests that you visit the museum when it opens again next April and share in your hometown history. In the meantime, if you want to visit during the winter months, you can do so by contacting Barb Miller (652-5258), Wayne (652-6708), or any Bloody Run Historical Society member. Don't forget to bundle up because the museum is not heated during the winter.

GROUND BREAKING

A ground breaking ceremony was held October 6, 2011 for the new high school building with school officials, community members, construction company representatives and architects present. The new wing is being constructed behind the present building so the project will not interfere with classes during the process. Once the construction is complete the present two wings will be demolished.

The class of 1952 started their reunion weekend Friday evening at the Everett / Tussey Mountain football game played at Everett. Saturday's events started with lunch at the Jean Bonnet Restaurant with most of the class members in attendance.

From there they traveled to "Old Bedford Village" which was described as a "unique experience!" Ed's Steak house was the venue for their Saturday evening reunion dinner where notes and messages were read from classmates who weren't in attendance. Next year's reunion, their 60th, was also discussed.

OBITUARY Beatrino Aveni De Laney Richardson

Beatrino Aveni De Laney Richardson, 75, of Sequim, WA, passed away on November 13, 2011, at her home.

Bea, as she was fondly called, was born April 10, 1936 in Bedford, PA. She is the daughter of the late Leslie E. De Laney and Birdie Beatrino Aveni De Laney.

In November of 1954, Bea married Harold Richardson of Baltimore, MD. He survives along with three children and eight grandchildren. Also surviving are a brother, Page W. De Laney D.D.S. of Bedford, and a sister, Sandra L. De Laney of Fairfax, VA. Bea was preceded in death by a grandson.

Bea graduated from Bedford High School, Class of 1954. She then attended Morgan State University receiving a B.S. in physical education. Her teaching career began in the Baltimore School System and continued in Everett where she taught health and physical education from 1967 to 1969. After leaving Everett, Bea taught in Alaska schools for 21 more years before retiring to Sequim, WA, with her husband Harold.

Following our last newsletter, we had inquiries regarding teachers, in addition to Everett Alumni, who have retired. Following is a list of teachers and support staff who have retired the past three years.

OBITUARY Mary G. Barndollar

Everett Area High School English teacher Mary Barndollar, 98, died Wednesday, October 5, 2011 at home, with her family by her side.

Mary was born January 23, 1913 in Kuna, Idaho, daughter of the late Maurice and Anna Young.

On October 30, 1939 she married Tom R. Barndollar who preceded her in death on November 15, 1989. Mary is survived by her son R. James Barndollar (1966) and wife Polly Koontz Barndollar (1967) and a grandson, Michael James Barndollar and wife Jesi Adams Barndollar all of Lancaster, PA.

Mrs. Barndollar graduated from Broad Top High School and Shippensburg State Teachers College, Class of 1934. After teaching at Broad Top, she joined the teaching staff at Everett High School.

While at home, Mary enjoyed reading, working crossword puzzles and was talented with needlework. In 2005, at the age of 92, she returned to Everett to attend the 40th year class reunion of the Everett High School Class of 1965.

Mrs. Barndollar retired from the Everett Schools in 1976.
